Re: Letter of recommendation

Dear Potential Builder,

I would like to express our complete satisfaction with Lara Custom Homes. When we started out looking for someone to build our "dream home", we were given Eric's name and number. We met with him and right away we felt a real honest and hardworking individual who listened to us and were there to make our dreams a reality. He proved to be extremely reliable and dedicated; it was as if he was building his own home! He is particular to using only the best quality for building materials which makes a difference, but not over charging for the materials. He made sure we had available all resources and materials in our price range; never trying to make us purchase the most expensive items. He kept us "me" on track with our budget. I have never known a builder to do that. The more money you spend the more money they make is their philosophy, not his.

His dedication showed throughout the process and after the build making sure we are happy and understand how to use all our new appliances and alarm system. He worked effortlessly through weekends and late into the evenings. He made sure everyone who was building didn't scrimp or do a sloppy job. This was very important to him to have everything perfect.

During the process of building our home he was always available for questions even if we asked him over and over again. He never became frustrated with our questions or concerns. He listened and answered them. He only employs honest and hardworking individuals. He has even had them come to my house on a Saturday night to check on something that I was concerned about. It turned out be nothing. With other companies I would have had to wait until Monday or later to have someone come out and look. This is customer service elite!

We are so pleased with our home. I have to pinch myself everyday I wake up, "This is really my home". We continually get compliments on our home, one compliment in particular tickled us is, "this house looks like it should be on Cribs". It is truly a beautiful, entertaining (which we do a lot of), inviting, peaceful and absolutely perfect place to call home.

I have and will continue to recommend Lara Custom Homes for anyone who is looking to build their home.

Best regards,
